“Improving Endodontic Success with Modern Technology”

Friday, November 5, 2021 9:00-10:00am 1 CE Credit Hours

THIS LIVE STREAMING WEBINAR WILL INCLUDE A QUESTION & ANSWER SESSION

The webinar will also be recorded and available for on-demand viewing and CE credit for 30 days beginning on Monday 11/8/21 on the NVDS website (www.nvds.org)

Synopsis:

Endodontics is a rapidly evolving specialty that has seen tremendous advancement in equipment, technology, and materials in the past decade. This presentation will offer an overview of recent development in imaging, instrumentation systems, irrigation systems, and obturation materials. It will also touch upon the concept of minimally invasive endodontics and discuss regenerative endodontics as well as guided endodontics. These exciting new technology and materials have greatly improved the safety and efficiency of endodontic treatment and therefore may help our patients to better preserve their natural dentition.

Course Objectives:

- Describe the main applications of cone beam CT in endodontics.
- Become familiar with some of the new advances in endodontic instrumentation, irrigation, and obturation systems.
- Discuss the indications, advantages, and limitations of regenerative endodontics and guided endodontics.

About our Presenter:

Dr. Jianing (Jenny) He received her dental degree from West China University of Medical Sciences in 1996, and a certificate in Endodontics and a PhD in Oral Biology from the University of Connecticut Health Center in 2003.

Dr. He has been actively involved in endodontic education, research, and clinical practice. She is a Diplomat of the American Board of Endodontics, and a fellow of American College of Dentists. She has published over 50 manuscripts in peer-reviewed journals and has served on the Research and Scientific Affairs committee for the AAE and the Scientific Advisory Board of the Journal of Endodontics.

Dr. He is currently a Clinical Associate Professor at Texas A&M University College of Dentistry, and maintains a full-time private practice limited to Endodontics in Dallas, TX.
